NEW GRADUATE PROGRAM IN COMMUNITY NURSING

To ease your transition from school to nursing career, HealthCall offers a new graduate nursing program to start you on the right path.

The New Graduate Program in Community Nursing is a formal education and training program for recent graduates of RN and LPN programs who have not previously worked as nurses or who have less than 12 months professional experience in those roles. The purpose of the program is to foster a successful transition to the role of RN or LPN and help you understand the private duty nursing setting. The program also optimizes quality patient care and the retention of high-performing professionals.

PROGRAM FORMAT

The program consists of classroom educational presentations, initial follow-up competency validation and development plans, clinical rotation under the supervision of qualified preceptors, and ongoing meetings with the clinical team, preceptor and others to assure progression and advancement on the continuum from novice to competent performance. Our program is facilitated by nurse experts with special emphasis on: clinical skills, critical thinking skills, leadership abilities, communication skills, patient safety, and professional career development. The Program also includes completion of HealthCall's Adult and Pediatric Respiratory Assessment and Management Course, at no cost. This course is 7.91 accredited contact hours.

Most nurses accepted in the Program will complete orientation within 2 1/2 weeks. Program participants must be willing to make a one year commitment, either part-time or full-time, to HealthCall following completion of the Program.

GOALS

- Prepare the new graduate to provide safe and competent nursing care to pediatric and adult patients
- Reduce anxiety associated with being a novice in the nursing profession
- Facilitate assimilation to the private duty nursing environment through support systems
- Develop effective communication skills

OBJECTIVES

At the completion of the program, the participants will be able to:

- Successfully handle pediatric and adult patient assignments, including ventilator-dependent patients
- Demonstrate a complete physical and psychosocial assessment on a patient
- Take appropriate problem-solving actions when confronted with a clinical or administrative dilemma
- Work cooperatively and effectively with physicians, family members and other members of the healthcare team.

PROGRAMS DATES

HealthCall's New Graduate Program in Community Nursing accepts incoming RNs and LPNs on an ongoing basis. Applications are open for 2024. There is no cost to participants in the program, and participants will be compensated during the program.
